

I don't like being bothered at home by telemarketers due to there pressures they put on us. They don't take no for an answer, and in turn you have to get rude with them. I feel that this should be our right to deal or not deal with these people, and if we choose not to this shouldn't mean that someone can come thruogh and make the change to deal with them . Other people donot know what or how we have to deal with our lives. In some cases we are happy with the service we have, and dn't want to make a change in our phone service. If we want to throw our money out the window as one person from AT&T had said that is our choice. We make that money not them. If we choose not to take an offer a telemarketer gives to us , then that is our choice also. I signed up to not be bothered by telemarketers and that is the way I want it to be!
